Verification of Expected Death during Covid-19 pandemic emergency with remote clinical support

The Coronavirus Act 2020 makes special arrangements for verifying an expected death with clinical remote support in a community setting, such as care homes, supported living accommodation or when a person receives care in their own home. This webinar will support non-medical people to prepare for verifying an expected death in times of Covid-19 emergency. The supporting guidance which has been produced with this webinar, will enable care workers to proceed to carry out this procedure with remote clinical support and to understand what preparation will be needed to meet current guidelines, local policy and practice in a safe and compassionate way.
