Newly Appointed Primary Science Coordinator Training

Taking on the leadership of science can appear a daunting task for many new science coordinators, especially at a time when its place in the curriculum is under greater scrutiny.

This training will help new coordinators gain a clear understanding of what science teaching and learning should be like and identify what they need to do to further develop the subject in their own school.

Part of the cost of the training includes a half day visit from a science advisor / inspector to support your schools specific challenges.

This course is offered in the Autumn and Spring terms.

Autumn & Spring 21-22 Primary Science Coordinators Networks

These network groups provide a forum for science coordinators to work collaboratively on improving the teaching and leadership of science.

Over recent years we have worked together to develop a science curriculum that builds powerful knowledge whilst engaging children in challenging scientific problem solving, central to this has been encouraging and drawing upon children's curiosity. The product of this work has been the Hampshire Learning Journeys which are used to good effect by many schools and available to all schools who participate in these networks.

All network meetings combine sharing of ideas and techniques, practice with peers and opportunities to test what is shared in school. All the training materials are designed to be easily adapted for use back in schools.
