1. Executive Summary

1.1. The purpose of this paper is to inform the Executive Member on the need to decide the pattern of school term and holiday dates for school year 2012/13 and to note the outcomes of the consultation process that has been followed.

2. Contextual information

2.1. It is the responsibility of a local authority to schedule a school year which provides the statutory 190 pupil days and 195 teacher days in voluntary controlled and community school. The structure for delivering this entitlement has been the subject of national and local debate in recent years.

2.2. The Local Government Association (LGA) National Standing Committee on the School Year has been active in seeking to establish a National School Year.

2.3. Local authorities have always determined the dates of school terms and holidays independently and, despite attempts to secure national agreement, not all authorities have agreed to abide by the recommendations of the LGA. Liaison with neighbouring authorities is on-going and regular communication takes place on the setting of dates.

2.4. Hampshire teachers' professional associations, represented by the Conditions of Service Working Party (CoSWoP), have worked closely with officers of the local authority over several years in order to secure an agreed approach to setting dates for the county's schools.

2.5. Establishing more balanced term lengths with regular breaks supports an aim of the corporate strategy, to maximising wellbeing, by helping schools and families to plan learning more effectively. Another aim, Hampshire, safer and more secure for all, is supported by achieving agreement on dates across the county so that schools and their communities can work effectively together in school and out of school hours.

- 2.6. Children are safer in school and good attendance supports educational achievement laying the foundation for a positive contribution to society and economic well-being. Properly structured periods of learning and rest help children to remain healthy, enjoy their school time and achieve more. The publication of dates well in advance enables families to plan holidays and arrange childcare so that school attendance need not be compromised.

3. Outline of Proposal

- 3.1. It is recommended that the Executive Member for Children's Services approves the school term and holiday dates that are supported by CoSWoP and are set out in Appendix 1 of the report, for the school year 2012/2013. This model is the one that has been recommended by the LGA.

4. Current Position

- 4.1. For the school year 2012/2013 the pattern recommended by the LGA was noted by HCC and representatives from CoSWoP as providing a very good basis for the pattern of school term and holiday dates. It included all the features that are an aim of the consultation in Hampshire. Therefore the pattern of dates was recommended to schools but they were asked for their views on the detail of the start and end date of the school year.
- 4.2. A consultation with schools began on 14 October 2010 and closed on 8 December. 66 schools replied, 56 primary phase mainstream schools, 9 secondary phase and 1 special school. The LGA model's pattern of dates was confirmed and schools were asked if they would prefer:
- Tuesday 4 September 2012 as the first day of the autumn term and Wednesday 24 July 2013 as the last working day of the summer term
 - or,
 - The same pattern of school year but the term start on Monday 3 September 2012 and finish on Tuesday 23 July 2013.
- 4.3. Of the 66 responses there were 6 responses that appeared confused (because of the accompanying comment) and so were discounted. Of the remaining 60, 43 favoured the latter option. The key features of the preferred model are:
- The Autumn term starts on Monday 3 September 2012 which starts the year with a whole week.
 - A two week, three weekend Christmas holiday is proposed.
 - The school year ends on Tuesday 23 July 2013, whilst this creates a two day school week this is unavoidable

5. Recommendation(s)

- a) It is recommended that the Executive Member for Children's Services approves the school term and holiday dates that are supported by representative members of Hampshire County Council's (HCC) Conditions of Service Working Party (CoSWoP) and are set out in Appendix 1 of the report, for the school year 2012/2013.
